A new anecdote of Mr Lincoln is told by Mr F. B. Carpenter in the last number of the New York Independent. It is as follows:

It will be remembered that an extra session of Congress was called in July following Mr Lincoln's inauguration. In the message then sent in speaking of secession, and the measures taken by the Southern leaders to bring it about there occurs the following remark: "With rebellion thus sugar coated, they have been drugging the public mind of their section for more than thirty years, until at length they have brought many good men to a willingness to take up arms against the Government," &c. Mr DeFrees, the Government printer, told me that when the message was being printed he was a good deal disturbed by the use of the term "sugar-coated," and finally went to the President about it.

Their relations to each other being of the most intimate character, he told Mr Lincoln frankly that he ought to remember that a message to Congress was a different affair from a speech at a mass meeting in Illinois, that the message became a part of history, and should be written accordingly.

"What is the matter now?" inquired the President.

"Why," said Mr. DeFrees, "you have used an undignified expression in the message," and then reading the paragraph aloud, he added, "I would alter the structure of that, if I were you."

"DeFrees," replied Mr. Lincoln, "that word expresses precisely my idea, and I am not going to change it. The time will never come in this country when the people won't know exactly what sugar-coated means."

JEFF. DAVIS' FATAL BLUNDER.—An exchange relates a conversation that occurred in the Smithsonian Institution at Washington in 1854, when Jeff Davis predicted that the Union would soon be divided into two republics.

"Where will the division or boundary line be?" interrogated Professor Jewett, the Librarian, to whom the conversation was addressed.

"The line separating the slave and free States," answered Davis.

"Then," said the Professor, "you expect to claim the national Capital?"

"Of course," was the reply, "and this very Smithsonian Institute will be within the Southern republic."

"But," asked the Professor, "how will you bring about such a division of the country? Do you think the free States will agree to it without a resort to arms?"

"Sir," said Jefferson Davis, in his sententious manner, "the North will never fight us on that question. There will be no bloodshed. When the South says she will secede and become a distinct nationality, the North will be glad to let us go, and that peaceably. It will be a bloodless revolution."

WHAT REBELLION COST THE SOUTH.—A Richmond paper estimates that the war has cost the South five thousand eight hundred millions of dollars, namely:—twenty-five hundred millions by loss of slave property; nine hundred millions by the ravages of war; nine hundred millions by the loss of staple crops; five hundred millions by property sunk in the Confederate debt, and one thousand millions by what the South must hereafter pay as her proportion of the principal and interest of the national debt. By the census of 1860 the entire property of the fifteen slave States was valued at $7,000,000,000, the slaves being valued at $2,400,000,000. For the last year before the war the cotton crop was worth $250,000,000. The tobacco crop for 1860 was worth $40,000,000, and the rice and sugar crops for the same year were each worth $20,000,000. Wheat and corn were subsequently planted in place of these, but the product was consumed by the rebel armies and the slaves. The debt of the Confederacy at the time of its collapse was at least four thousand million, which had absorbed say one-eighth of this sum in gold value.

GOVERNOR BROWNLOW ON THE FRANCHISE LAW IN TENNESSEE.—A special dispatch to the Cincinnati Gazette of July 11th says:

Governor Brownlow of Tennessee has issued a proclamation declaring the "Franchise Law" the supreme law of the State. He denounces all those as rebels who attempt to oppose its execution, and calls upon the civil authorities to arrest all persons who under the pretense of being candidates for Congress, are advising the people to nullify the Constitution and laws, and stirring up rebellion and sedition.

A singular interchange of emigration is going on between Missouri and Illinois. Missourians, who have been secessionists, are removing to Illinois, and purchasing lands, while large numbers of the Illinois farmers are going into Missouri. The Unionists of the latter State make it uncomfortable for secessionists, and compel them to seek new homes, the Illinois farmers buying their land at low rates, and selling their own at high rates.

A DEMOCRATIC HOPE GONE.—Recently Maj.-General Sherman had a public reception at Columbus, Ohio. In the course of his remarks he heartily endorsed Gen. Cox, announcing him as the next Governor of Ohio. He also said he was not, under any circumstances, a candidate for Gubernatorial or Presidential honors.

FALL ELECTIONS.—The States which select Governors this fall, are Iowa, Maine, Massachusetts, Vermont, Minnesota, New Jersey, Ohio, Wisconsin, and Virginia.

That either Secretary Seward or Secretary Stanton is to retire from the Cabinet, is semi-officially and very pointedly denied by the Albany Evening Journal.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

TUESDAY MORNING AUGUST 22, 1865

True to their Past Record

Rev. Petroleum V. Nasby in his last admonitory letter remarked prophetically "There will always be a Dimekrasy as long as there is a nigger." It must be allowed that the stand which the dispirited remnants of the party have taken in the State of Ohio and elsewhere is calculated to impress us with a knowledge of the shrewdness of this remark. While they tell us that they care nothing about slavery their conduct plainly shows that their attachment for it is too strong to be severed either by force or time. In Ohio there are two parties or pretended parties passing under the same old denominational name. One of these wings is sagacious enough to see that slavery is gone beyond a hope of restoration and though regretting its loss are willing to submit thereto because they know that further opposition to freedom will avail nothing. The other wing still clings to the idea that its eidolon may yet be restored to the temple in which they had long worshipped it and from which it was a while ago so violently torn. This hope with them is only a feeble one. But they do not renounce it because it glimmers on the borders of despair. On the contrary they cling to it with a greater tenacity because they feel that their hold upon it is insecure. Like those fabled of old who grew "fiercer by despair," these unhappy persons grow more eager to save their cherished "institution" and more determined in their efforts to do it as the chances for the fulfillment of their hopes decrease and as their promises of success elude and escape them.

The "regular" wing of the party in Ohio is under the leadership of Long, Pugh and others of this uncompromising and undaunted class. Under the hand of the former of these ex worthies an address was recently issued both to the "Democracy" of Ohio and of the country at large. After reviewing the positions the party had occupied in relation to the war for the Union—statements which were merely prolegomenary to the real subject of the address—he comes to what he considers the actual point in issue. Take this statement as an enunciation of the political faith of the party:

"Nor should we fail to avow our fixed opinion that white mastery and negro slavery is, in the South, the very best form of their society, and that any other is not only undesirable, but incompatible with the negro's existence. If half the people of Ohio were negroes, the doubts which some entertain on the subject, would not be felt by any of the whites. The Democracy of the Northern States have been demoralized all over the world by their false position on the tremendous question of negro slavery to the white masters."

Here we have their "principles" very concisely stated. These persons take no trouble to quibble or to deal in ambiguous generalities as some of their political associates do, but they express an unshaken belief in the excellence, fitness, naturalness, and even in the divinity of human slavery. This is the sole article of their political and even of their moral faith, and with a consistent hatred of human freedom they hesitate not to avow it.

The question of slavery is already, in reality removed from our politics, but it will no doubt be impossible to convince the advocates of the system of this fact, for a long time to come. After the amendment shall have been adopted, we can afford to let these deluded beings who are continually invoking their countrymen to continue to oppress others, whine, howl, or nurse their rage in silence as shall best suit them.

THE FOURTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT.—As now constituted, the Fourth Judicial District of this State comprises the counties of Clackamas, Multnomah, Washington, Columbia, Clatsop and Tillamook. This District is entirely too large, and the labors that devolve upon its Judge, altogether too onerous. In some of the counties which compose it, there is, it is true, little business of a judicial nature; but this is much more than counterbalanced by the vast amount of labor which the District Judge has to perform in this city. It is safe to assert that the Judge of the Fourth District has twice as much work to do as any other Judge in the State. The vast amount of business which devolves upon him requires his almost constant attention. By far the greater part of his time is devoted immediately to these duties. He has scarcely any respite from the Bench, since all the odds and ends of his time between the regular sessions of Court are taken up by special terms which it is absolutely necessary to hold in order to prevent an accumulation of business, which, were it suffered to pass over from one regular term to another, could never be gone through.

This county ought to constitute a separate Judicial District. Were such an arrangement as this made, the Judge here would still have more business than any other in the State. Besides, the requirements of business are such that a Judge should be enabled to be here at all times. As matters now are, his presence is often needed in this city at times when he is necessarily absent in other counties performing his official duties. In Portland, where so vast an amount of business of all kinds is transacted, as a matter of course, there is also much litigation, and by the necessary absence of the District Judge, parties are quite often subjected to delay, inconvenience and loss.

The present Judge of this District labors with constant assiduity and does his work well. Notwithstanding the number and onerousness of his duties, he goes through every matter that is submitted to judicial investigation, in a circumspect and pains taking manner. All our District Judges, we are assured, are careful and laborious men. In this, of course they do but perform their duty. What we wish, however to say just now is, that the salaries of our judges are notoriously too low. The Judge of the Fourth District, for example cannot afford to do the work he is now performing for the salary he receives. The matter of increasing these salaries had the attention of the last Legislature, but owing to a Constitutional impediment, they were not made larger. They ought to be increased certainly and the Constitutional Amendment now proposed for that purpose, should be ratified and made a part of our supreme law as soon as it can be done in the manner which the Constitution prescribes.

It is expected that the census now being taken will show that the population of Oregon is considerably more than one hundred thousand. Hence the next Legislature will have the power to make provision for the election of two additional District Judges. The several Judicial Districts of the State will probably be changed somewhat in their boundaries next year, so as to equalize them as nearly as possible. East of the Cascade mountains there is more work than one Judge ought to be required to do. That district should be divided into two. These matters ought to receive the attention of the next Legislature since they are equal in importance to any which immediately concern the people of the State.

THE $20,000 CLAUSE.—Several Eastern papers and correspondents have taken the trouble to assert with some positiveness that the President is about to revoke the $20 000 clause in his late amnesty proclamation. It seems to us that experience and observation ought by this time to have taught those who are so ready to anticipate and predict some act of vacillation on the part of the President that he is not likely to be moved from a position which he has deliberately and firmly taken.

We have received Gazley's Pacific Monthly for July. This is a very valuable number, and the magazine deserves liberal support.

Boise and Owyhee

FROM A TRAVELING CORRESPONDENT

BIG CAMAS PRAIRIE, August 11, 1865.

Six days ago I left Boise City in the South Boise stage not bound immediately for South Boise but intending to take a look first at the Big and Little Camas Prairies and the quartz district of the vicinity some miles southeast of Rocky Bar known as Volcano.

[illegible]

The distance from Boise City to Rocky Bar may not be over sixty miles in a direct line, but the wagon road thither which in fact is the only route between the two places makes a circuitous winding among the hills and mountains, finally reaching that place not exactly by way of [illegible] Hall but by following for seventy miles the old wagon road to the southeast and then taking a turn to the northeast crossing Boise river and passing for a few miles over a sage plain. The road takes them over and among well grassed hills and though rough to travel and dreary enough in its lack of shrub or timber, the country is an excellent one to pass through, grass and water being abundant, favoring the emigrants of whom we met many coming as well as a number who were to be seen fitting out with considerably less pretension for the [illegible] homeward trip.

We started at [illegible] o'clock just as the dawn drew lines of light across the East, and with good teams the light stage went dashing along rapidly over every interval of good road, but the hills were steep and toilsome, ascents were frequent and it was evening when we reached the station at Little Camas Prairie, where we were to spend the night. At this place quite a comfortable house is erected. No crops are raised, but a large amount of hay is being cut and pressed ready for the supply of the South Boise market about thirty or forty miles distant.

BY THE WAY.

The emigrant of to-day finds more of civilization along this road than his predecessors did of a few years ago. The travel to Boise has caused settlers to occupy convenient stations at the several creeks and although the travel this summer does not justify the expectations formed by them still they hang on and hope to be better remunerated as indeed they may another year. About eighteen miles from Boise City, we stopped to breakfast where memory does not linger very fondly over the remembrance of the meal. A Missouri secessionist is not, as a general thing, a good liver. The coffee was as weak as vapid dish water, the bread afflicted by a saleratus leprosy, the butter strong instead of the coffee and the meat a mixed arrangement of "fried, roasted or stewed." All this was cheap at $1 25 for an effort at digestion, in consideration of the manifest patriotism of the Hawkins family. George Washington, the eldest son was evidently born in the palmy days of peace when the father of his country was respected, even in Missouri but in later troublous years a second edition of infancy had come to the Hawkins family and as it is only a step from the sublime to the ridiculous, the young gentleman in swaddling clothes is yclept Jefferson Davis. The time may come, when contrary to the force of early education, this same scion of the Hawkins's, may curse his parents for having made him a living commemoration of treason.

We took dinner at a more eligible spot, where, although the wife was sick, we partook of more wholesome fare, under the auspices of a more loyal citizen, whose politics I did not inquire, but whose grub spoke for him as being of a wholesome turn of mind.

LITTLE CAMAS AND BIG CAMAS PRAIRIES.

Little Camas prairie is a beautiful spot among the mountains, where a section or two of good soil lies waiting for cultivation. I don't think a general garden crop would do well there, as the "good Democrat and strongest kind of a secessionist," as the landlord took pains to call himself, told us that heavy frosts had visited that locality during the past week. Making hay was his vocation, and he seemed to be improving the "sunshine" to good effect. Sleeping beside a hay stack, and breakfasting at Little Camas, we started for Big Camas, or rather for Volcano, which quartz district is located in the hills, near by, on the south side of Big Camas prairie. It is a ride of twelve miles from Little Camas hither. Crossing a divide of not very steep proportions, we came upon a rolling upland country over which the road took its way very gradually and pleasantly. I abandoned the stage at Little Camas, and by agreement there met Mr. Isaac D Hunteon, formerly a merchant at Walla Walla, now a quartz miner at Volcano, with whom I was to make the trip to this region and examine into the good qualities of quartz and prairie that abound here. Big Camas prairie is neither more nor less than an extent of rich prairie equal in extent and fertility to Grand Ronde Valley, being the extensive valley of the Malade river, which is scarce more than a creek at present but runs sixty miles easterly emptying into Snake river at Salmon Falls. This valley forms a great basin at least thirty miles wide by sixty long, all of which is excellent grass land. The upland is ribbed with rocky volcanic reefs, but on the hill sides are numberless springs and chances for settlement, while along the Malade is a stretch of prairie level as a barn floor, apparently as rich as soil can be, yielding thousands of acres of standing meadow waiting to be cut, and affording homes for thousands of settlers, when the growth and importance of the mining regions of Idaho demand the production near home of all its bread stuffs. The low lands of this prairie abounds in camas, and have given that name to it, and I was most agreeably surprised to find a rich and extensive agricultural region inviting settlement, where I had expected to find only deserts. There have been no frosts here as at little Camas, and the only lacking necessary thing is timber, which can, however, be procured in any quantities at a distance of eight to twelve miles and even less from some portions of the valley. I write in haste but shall be heard from more at length.

HON. JAS. M. ASHLEY.—This gentleman, accompanied by Col. Frothingham, arrived in this city from his overland journey last evening. Mr Ashley is Congressman from the Tenth District of Ohio. He has been repeatedly re-elected, and is regarded as one of the most active and useful members of the Lower House. He comes over the plains charged with the duty of visiting the various Territories, and ascertaining their condition and wants. We learn that it is his intention to proceed from here to Puget Sound, and thence by steamer to San Francisco.

It is a source of much gratification to the people of the extreme West to observe the considerable attention that is now being paid to these States and Territories by our countrymen of the East. We may hope that we shall be better understood hereafter than heretofore. Besides, the knowledge of the fact that we are remembered at all times by the people of the East as their fellow countrymen, draws them and us nearer to each other, and inspires us all with a profounder admiration and love for our common country.

SAN FRANCISCO POLITICS.—The "People's Party" of San Francisco having been unwilling to adhere to and support the nominees of the regular organization of that city, issued a call some days ago for another Convention. The Bulletin published a list of the names of about 7,000 persons who were said to favor a reorganization of the Union party in the city. The object of the movement was obviously to enable those who had long managed the politics of San Francisco to retain political power for the future. The Morning Call shows that a great majority of the names published by the Bulletin were those either of fictitious persons or of persons not entitled to vote. The Call estimates that of the whole list, not over 1 000 names are those of voting citizens. The delegates which the "People's Party" appointed to the State Convention at Sacramento were not admitted. It is very probable however, that the party will run an independent Legislative ticket in San Francisco.

HOWELL COBB.—Howell Cobb ex Speaker of the U S House of Representatives has come out of his hiding place in Georgia and written a letter to the people of that State informing them that they are subjugated, that slavery is at an end and that they had better yield a ready and ungrudging obedience to the laws of the country. Sound advice, but coming very late.

THE BEE.—What has become of the Sacramento Bee? This brilliant and busy journal has not appeared here for at least ten days.

Gen. Halleck was announced to leave New York for San Francisco, on the first steamer in August.

By Overland Telegraph.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

California News.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20.—The Eastern line is still silent.

The cotton fields of Los Angeles are promising a yield far beyond the most sanguine expectations of planters.

The United States [illegible] steamer Saranac is fully refitted and [illegible] cruise came down from Mare Island [illegible] and will start immediately in search of the pirate Shenandoah.

No anxiety is felt here for the safety of the Sierra Nevada as she was not due at Victoria until Friday morning a few hours before the Brother Jonathan left on account of not leaving Portland until Thursday.

Gen. McDowell orders the immediate rebuilding of Camp Independence in Owens River Valley, Plumas County, Cal. The [illegible] Owyhee via Granite Creek will constitute the Sub District of Plumas under command of Maj. Smith with Capt. Swasey Quarter Master.

The State Central Committee yesterday accepted Ralston's resignation as Treasurer and appointed [illegible] Lancaster Parker in his place.

R. P. Clement has not been nominated by the people's committee for Judge of the Fifteenth District Court and no such proposition has been before them. They will renominate Judge Dwinelle for that office.

Out of fifty nine men in Company F, Second Infantry, with Captain Gibbs on [illegible], all but seventeen deserted before the steamer Senator sailed yesterday in which they were to embark for Arizona.

A Washington street jeweller's clerk made a desperate attempt to commit suicide at the Brooklyn Hotel on Sansome street this morning cutting deep gashes in both wrists and one side and severing the outer jugular. He was found in bed which was perfectly soaked with blood, in an attempt to save his life. He will probably be sent to Stockton.

The opposition steamer [illegible] arrived this afternoon with dates from New York to the 20th of July.

THE TELEGRAPH.—The overland line was in working order yesterday forenoon, as dispatches from Omaha to California attest. But before we had time to receive anything here from the East, the Oregon and California line parted beyond Jacksonville and consequently we are about as unfortunately situated as we were before the overland line was repaired. At a late hour it was found to be impossible to get signals from any office beyond Salem.

Before the line parted a short dispatch was received from Mr Gamble by the operator here announcing the failure of the project to lay the Atlantic telegraph. Twelve hundred miles of the cable had been paid out when it suddenly broke and was lost in about two hundred and fifty fathoms of water. It was feared that the enterprise would prove an entire failure.

REBEL WEST POINTERS.—Not a single West Pointer has yet been pardoned by the President. Many of them are begging the boon of mercy, but their misdeeds are remembered against them and they are denied pardon.

Lord Bacon beautifully said: "If a man be gracious to strangers it shows that he is a citizen of the world, and that his heart is no island cut off from other lands."

ARRIVALS FROM NEW YORK.—The steamer Orizaba brings on her present trip three new mills for working the quartz ledges of Idaho. One of ten stamps [illegible] to Mr. H. C. [illegible] of [illegible] purchased at San Francisco by the superintendent of the New York and [illegible] Company, is accompanied with machinery sufficient to add fifteen stamps, and will be put to work on the Oasis ledge in Owyhee. This mill [illegible] Another from the Fishkill Works on the Hudson river opposite Newburg, comes to Mr. Wolling[illegible] and will, we presume, be taken to South Boise. A third mill of twenty stamps, also from New York, [illegible] comes to Mr. W. B. Benson for South Boise. In [illegible] to the above there is also parts of a fourth mill by this [illegible] to Messrs. J. Marion M[illegible] of Owyhee. New York city appears to be [illegible] if a man wants to sell a mine [illegible] in order to procure means necessary for its [illegible] there are investing largely in Idaho, and there is still on the way out much valuable machinery to work the mines. Shares of mining stock can be disposed of to good advantage in New York. The introduction of [illegible] from the East to work the ledges of Idaho was [illegible] by Dr. B. B. Farnham, and his enterprise has been followed by the introduction of very many mills [illegible] At no period, since the discovery of gold in this northern region, has the country looked so [illegible] We can but hope that there will be [illegible] for all this expenditure of capital, and we may safely say there is no cause in the world why there should not be. The ledges exist in the country, and [illegible] practical common sense to get their worth out. In [illegible] business of this kind it need not be [illegible] different from establishing a common brick yard. A [illegible] is formed to make bricks; they have their clay, moulds, etc., and go about the business [illegible] manner. Unless they have some small [illegible] they desire to freeze out, bricks are very soon [illegible] upon the market and sell for what they are worth [illegible] are then declared. So in quartz—all that [illegible] the establishment of the mill is good [illegible] the "bricks" will be forthcoming in a [illegible] and their real value is never much less than [illegible] on the dollar.

[illegible] A BOON.—We were agreeably surprised last [illegible] to find at Arrigoni's Dr. B. B. Farnham, Superintendent of the New York and Idaho Gold and Silver [illegible] Company, and Mr. W. W. Piper, Foreman of the [illegible] who had just arrived by the steamer New [illegible] from South Boise. We obtained from these [illegible] the most encouraging reports of the mines in [illegible] We are pleased to learn from Mr. Piper [illegible] mill was now in successful operation. [illegible] day of August the first steam was raised in the [illegible] on the 14th all the batteries of the mill were [illegible] regular order, and have since been crushing [illegible]. The first report of this Company in New [illegible] unless we are greatly mistaken, will give Idaho a [illegible] on Wall street. The Company have about [illegible] tons of rock out of their ledges ready for [illegible] which will show handsome results. Other mills [illegible] ready to begin operations, foremost among [illegible] is that under the superintendency of Col. Nelson [illegible] Capt. Wm. Moulthrop has [illegible] an excellent saw mill in operation and was supply[illegible] section with a good quality of lumber at good [illegible] Mr. A. B. Woodard, one of our city Artists, was [illegible] Boise section securing photographic views of the [illegible] about there. He has already secured [illegible] accurate views, sufficient to make the [illegible] panorama ever thought of. Mr. Piper [illegible] purchase some additional machinery for the [illegible] and contemplates starting again for [illegible] to-morrow. We understand Dr. F [illegible] to-morrow.

[illegible] AND EXPRESS.—B. M. DuRell & Co. have [illegible] with horses from Umatilla to Boise and [illegible] and we noticed yesterday on the wharf of [illegible] for shipment to-day, seven splendid [illegible] wagons, with deep boxes for the [illegible]. This line propose to put freight through [illegible] and returning will carry passengers. The [illegible] of the finest order, handsomely finished [illegible] each. The horses are all valuable [illegible] from $200 to $300 each, and with all this [illegible] though DuRell & Co. at least had [illegible] this river route being able to com[illegible] who was that place? If the over-reaching pol[illegible] lines were abandoned, and our [illegible] exorbitant extras on the ocean part of [illegible] there would be not the least obstacle to a [illegible] on the part of the Columbia route [illegible] of Idaho.

[illegible] party of gunners chartered the steamer [illegible] for a hunting excursion up the [illegible] river. The day was very warm, and after [illegible] the brush for two hours, without seeing [illegible] of the party hunted a cool place in the [illegible] a pillow of his coat lay down to pass [illegible] had not been in the shade a great while [illegible] along who addressed him "Well [illegible] Luck," says B., "I have not seen a [illegible] a drink." Accordingly they imbibed [illegible] came hobbing over and B leveled his [illegible] the bird [illegible] on. "Why didn't you [illegible]" "I thought you could kill it" [illegible] tartly. "Why do you say it was not [illegible] fine ph[illegible]" "No, there was [illegible] the reply. "Well, I saw a dozen at least [illegible] but perhaps I took aim at the wrong bird. A few drops only were [illegible] the pages as we write.

[illegible] COME LATE—A SUCCESSFUL WORK.—The cable for [illegible] Mr. Knott's new ferry boat across the river at this [illegible] was [illegible] laid last evening and the boat was [illegible] across once or twice, her decks loaded with passen[illegible] to enjoy the completion of the work in [illegible] satisfactory manner. The boat runs well and [illegible] of doing good service. The cable connected at the foot of Stark street on the west bank, and oppo[illegible] street on the east bank, resting [illegible] the river.

[illegible] IRON MAINS.—Previous to the [illegible] putting down the Nicolson pavement on Front street the [illegible] Water Company are taking up the old wood[illegible] and laying permanent iron pipes. The [illegible] of the company is [illegible] during the present year.

[illegible] ARRIVED.—The only survivor of the wreck [illegible] Brother Jonathan, which we have been [illegible] to learn of arriving here, is the China woman [illegible] who reached her destination by the Oregon [illegible] night. She was among the saved in the [illegible] boat [illegible] ashore.

[illegible] MOUNT HOOD.—A party of six or eight persons [illegible] printers, book binders, etc., left the city yes[illegible] to obtain a distant view of things from the summit of Mount Hood.

THE SANITARY COMMISSION.—An auxiliary [illegible] Committee, consisting of Messrs. A. A. Low, [illegible] Sturges, and John Jacob Astor, Jr., who, at the request of the managers of the Sanitary Commission consented to undertake the [illegible] of its books and accounts, have made two reports. The accounts are reported [illegible] in all particulars." The aggregate of [illegible] and disbursements from June, 1861, to January, 1865, was $3 470 587 04.

MONTANA.—The Montana Post of a late date has the following concerning matters at the head of navigation on the Missouri:

At Milk river the steamboat companies have [illegible] with [illegible] mounting three guns [illegible] The [illegible] compart[illegible] different [illegible] Fort Jacobs, Fort Copeland and Fort K[illegible] The work [illegible] The good [illegible] which [illegible] between 800 and 1000 [illegible] covered with tarpaulins.

On Friday last [illegible] wagons left [illegible] for Milk river with freight [illegible] for the [illegible] Copeland [illegible]. The Benton has been running from Fort [illegible] Milk river, and the [illegible] and Deer Lodge to Cow Island, which is [illegible] 120 miles below Benton. Milk river is distant from the same place somewhere between 2[illegible] and [illegible] miles. Only a few [illegible] parties [illegible] have been seen. The Deer Lodge and [illegible] got up as high as Dry Fork on the last trip, but found the water so much spread out and so shallow that they could carry freight no further. They put the goods into yawls, landed the passengers and sparred over the shoal, after which they got up as far as Cow Island and put the goods ashore at a point two miles below that attained on the first trip. While the boats were lying at the shoals cattle and horses were fording about 150 yards above the boat, the water was so low.

THE RICHMOND WHIG SUPPRESSED.—A dispatch dated Washington, July 13th, says that General Terry, commanding at Richmond, has suppressed the Whig newspaper of that city on the charge of disloyalty. The following is the order of General Terry suppressing the paper and the reasons therefor:

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT VIRGINIA, }
Richmond, July 11, 1865. }
Special Orders No. 87.]

Whereas, in the issue of the Richmond Whig of July 11, 1865, a certain clause of the merciful amnesty proclamation of the President of the United States pardoning traitors, is stigmatized as heathenish, a law of this land, duly enacted by Congress and approved by the President, is characterized as mean, brutal and cowardly, revolutionary, absurd and atrociously unjust, it is ordered that the Provost Marshal General of this department seize and hold in possession the office, presses, type and other property belonging to the said paper, and to prevent henceforth the publication thereof. By command of

MAJOR GENERAL TERRY.

THE CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD.—The Dutch Flat, (Cal.,) Enquirer of August 12th speaks of the progress of work on this road as follows:

The work of grading the Pacific Railroad goes on with almost marvelous rapidity. Trains will be running to Colfax, this side of Illinoistown, early in September. The grading is nearly completed to that point, and the rails being laid. Two thousand men are now at work on the line between Colfax and this place, and additional men are being set to work every day. The grade is found much easier than anticipated as it approaches this place, most of the cuts being through dirt and soft rock. The company are confident of being able to run the cars to this place by the first of January next. They have an abundance of resources, and, since the harvests are over, have no difficulty in getting all the men they want, and there is no doubt the company can accomplish the object and reach this point by the 1st of January, and we intend about that time to take a train in the morning, go to Sacramento, behold our Solons elect a United States Senator, and return in the evening of the same day.

RICH MEN.—Wm. B. Astor, is sixty five years old, worth fifty millions, a round faced, pleasant, quiet-mannered gentleman, owns two thousand dwellings, and is a lenient landlord. A. T. Stewart is sixty, thin, nervous, dignified, worth thirty millions, and liberal in cases of benevolence. Commodore Vanderbilt is white-haired, red cheeked, seventy, worth forty millions, drives a fast horse, keeps a fast boat, controls two fast railroads, companies with fast men and gives away his money lavishly. August Belmont, twenty millions, coarse, stout, fifty and very German. Geo. Opdyke, five millions, fifty, but looks younger, an agreeable gentleman. James Gordon Bennett, five millions, seventy-three years old, dignified in manner, broad Scotch accent, benevolent to the poor.

THREE NOTED TRAITORS.—Jeff Davis is still strictly guarded, and no visitors are permitted to see him. Clem Clay is allowed out door exercises, under the surveillance of the officer of the guard and two armed sentries. Clay greatly enjoys these walks, and they are doubtless very beneficial to his health, which was failing fast from his close confinement. They will be continued while they are deemed efficacious in preserving the prisoner's health and life. Mitchel is said to be more morose than ever. He strides up and down his cell in his bare feet. He has excellent shoes and stockings at his disposal, but will not wear them. His health continues good.

ROGERS' STATUETTES IN ENGLAND.—The London Times says of the exquisite statues of the American sculptor Rogers:

All these groups have the refreshing and unmistakable stamp of nationality upon them, and are admirable for life and spirit of action, cleverness of grouping, and truth of expression. This is better work for the plastic artist than imitating antique nudities, of outworn sophisticisms. Here at least, he has themes that come home to the heart of his critics, and breathing models in the world around him.

THE PENSION LIST.—Owing to the liberation of prisoners and the discharge of the army, the number of applications for pensions in the month of June was greater than ever before. Since the war began 84 000 pensions have been issued, 44 000 to invalid soldiers, and 40,000 to widows, mothers, and minor children. The payments to pensioners the past year have amounted to $9,000 000 and when all pensions arising from the war shall have been granted, the annual expense will be about $13 000 000.

FOR JOHN DAY.—Colonel Durr, just arrived across the plains from St. Louis, having disposed of his stock of goods, proposes to start the first of next week with two mule teams for the new mines on John Day's river, loaded with passengers. He will also be provided with a number of saddle animals, and passengers will be furnished with accommodations for carrying provisions, or they will be boarded, according to contract.—Boise Statesman.

ANOTHER BRUTAL TROT IN PROSPECT.—We hear that arrangements have been perfected for another trot from Boston to Portland between sunrise and sunset. A large bet made by the owner of the trotting mare Nelley Barker has been accepted and the trial, we understand, is to come off within ten days. We are told that the gentleman is confident the horse can perform the feat easily without any injury.—Boston Advertiser, July 1st.

CONUNDRUMS.—After the battle of Chattanooga a chaplain, dressed as army chaplains on actual service generally are, knelt by the side of a dying soldier and abruptly asked "My man, do you know who died for you?" The soldier opened his eyes, and replied "Wal now, stranger, I guess this is no time for asking conundrums."

THE MORMONS IN HONOLULU.—The King of the Sandwich Islands refuses to allow the Mormons to set up a church establishment in any part of the Islands. He so writes to Brigham Young in reply to a letter making such request.

Another source of the Nile has been discovered in a great lake in Central Africa, by Sam'l Baker. It was named Albert Nyanza. Baker parted from Speke and Grant on the White Nile, and going southward made the discovery.

The State election in Kentucky took place on the 7th of August. A Treasurer was to be chosen, nine members of Congress, a Legislature, and a Justice of the Supreme Court for the Third District.

MOST REMARKABLE.—In its effects and most useful in its application, the Fragrant Sozodont has become the most popular Dentifrice in existence. 'Tis used and praised by everybody.
Sold by all Druggists and Perfumers.

HENRY A. WISE.—This redoubtable gentleman has turned up in Richmond [illegible] an application for the possession of his plantation situated at Rolleston, a few miles from Norfolk. In his application Wise sets forth that he is a paroled prisoner of war belonging to the Army of Northern Virginia, and that [illegible] from [illegible] power of the hands of [illegible] Major [illegible] under the [illegible] ... granting him the privilege [illegible] He [illegible] that [illegible] ... As the [illegible] have use for the [illegible] likely that Wise will receive it. His place [illegible] alone as one of the coolest and most refreshing [illegible] we remember to have seen since [illegible] The extensive [illegible] were [illegible] during the [illegible] Henry A. Wise is that man.

OUR POLITICAL STATES.—There are now thirty six States, of which [illegible] less than one third were in the rebellion, and thus the States that remained loyal have a [illegible] of twenty eight in the Senate. In the Lower House the loyal States have 181 out of 242 Congressmen, a majority of 120 over the late rebel States. The [illegible] of the loyal element appears to be sufficient to secure us against any return to the old subjection. The domination of the South grew up while the slave aristocracy were in power and united, and while they had half of the Senate and nearly half of the House—a condition of affairs that cannot return again.

LOYALTY AND DEVOTION.—Miss Clara Barton, daughter of Judge Barton of Worcester, Mass., who has obtained national repute by publishing a list of missing soldiers, and by her heroic deeds to the wounded on battles and even under fire, left Washington lately, on a Government vessel with a party, for the purpose of enclosing the area of ground at Andersonville where so many Federal prisoners perished from want and exposure and of putting up head boards at their graves. She announces that she has a correct list of the deceased, and has accordingly obtained seventeen thousand head boards for that purpose.

The traitor John C. Breckinridge, writes a letter from Havana, in which he expresses his trust "that there will be wisdom enough in the councils at Washington not to drive a brave and suffering people to despair," and cautions them to remember "that there can be no lasting peace founded upon cruelty and oppression." This is well to come from a man who assented to the starving of Libby prison and to the numerous infernal tortures that were inflicted upon Union prisoners in order to get them out of the way.

THE EAST INDIA FLEET.—Commodore H. H. Bell, Admiral Farragut's Fleet Captain, has been ordered to the command of the East India Squadron, which is to be made in point of numbers and effectiveness a first class fleet. The flag ship of the squadron will be the good old flag ship Hartford, whose hull has received more wounds than any vessel of her tonnage in the world, a vessel rendered famous for always bearing Farragut to victory.

In 1846 and 1860 New York submitted the question of negro suffrage to the people. It was voted down—leaving the provisions of the Constitution of 1821 statu quo. A negro must be possessed of realty to the amount of $250 to be an elector.

Crowds of immigrants throng the streets from early morn till close of day. They every appearance of having seen a rough time in "passing over Jordan" this year. Most of them are bound for Oregon.—Idaho Statesman.

JEFF THOMPSON HAS A "FAMILY TALK" WITH HIS BUSHWHACKERS

When Jeff Thompson's men had been assembled at Jacksonport, Ark , to be paroled, a few weeks since the redoubtable hero of the white plume mounted a barrel and spoke to them after this wise

Gentlemen I have come here to have a little family talk with you as this will be the last time I may ever meet you together I have come here to tell you the news. Many of you don't know yet Vicksburg has fallen, and many of you don't know that Lee and Johnston have surrendered but I tell you it is all true Many of the 8,000 men I now see around me very many of you have been skulking for the last three years in the swamps, within a few miles of your homes, skulking duty and during that time have not seen your own children I see many faces about me that have not been seen by mortal man for the last three years And what have you been doing all that time? Why, you have been lying in the swamps until the moss has grown six inches long on your backs, and such men call themselves "chivalrous soldiers."

A few weeks ago General Reynolds sent a flag of truce to my headquarters and I sent out to gather up a respectable force to meet those officers, and not one of you responded A few days later when Col. Davis and Captain Bennett of General Dodge's staff bore dispatches to me from that General, I again attempted to call about me enough of you to make a respectable show, and how many of these brave 8,000 men reported at the call? One cross-eyed man with green goggles But you rally like brave and gallant men around Uncle Sam's commissary stores, and I now come to surrender you, and hope you will make better citizens than you have soldiers [Voice from the crowd—"General, talk to us like gentlemen "] Now you just dry up until I get through, and then you can get upon this barrel and talk I know there are some gentlemen here, and I know there are more d—d sneaking, cowardly dogs, who "have never done nothing on nary side," and I am going to talk to you all

In the first place, I want to say this to you: The Federal officers who have come here to parole and feed you have acted as gentlemen, in good faith They have not gone about peeping under your coats to see if you had pistols, they have not spied about your camps to see if you were secreting your arms, but have treated you as gentlemen. But I tell you that you have not acted in good faith Those of you who had arms, with a few exceptions, have left them at home and those who had Government horses have failed to report them here Now let me say to you, one and all, those of you who have retained your arms, as soon as you get home, take them to the nearest military post and deliver them up or burn them, or get rid of them in some manner for as sure as there is a God in heaven, if they are found in your houses just so sure will your houses be burned to the ground, and I hope to God every one of you who keep good arms or property of any kind in your houses will be hanged, and you will too.

Now I want you to go home and work hard and get up at night and see if your crops are growing Above all things avoid political discussions If any man says nigger to you, swear that you never knew or saw one in your life We have talked about the niggers for forty years and have been out talked, we have fought four years for the nigger and have been d—d baldly whipped, and now it is not "our put," the Yankees have won the nigger, and will do what they please with him and you have no say in the matter, if they want him they will take him, and if they say you must keep him, you must do it and no mistake I tell you that you have no say in the matter and you oughtn't to have any. Go home and stay there, don't go any where but to mill; don't go to church, for the ministers will put knots and mischief into your heads and get you into trouble Be good citizens, and those of you who have been good, honest and brave soldiers have nothing to fear but I warn those of you who have been nothing but sneaking, cowardly jay hawkers, cut throats, and thieves, that a just retribution awaits you, and, I hope to God that the Federal authorities will hang you wherever and whenever they find you, and they will do it sure Now I want to talk to you Missourians. You are talking about going to your old homes to live again What did every one of you say last fall, when you went into Missouri and expected to remain there? Why, that you would make every Union man "climb a tree," and many threats of a similar character Now, do you think that those Union men whom you threatened with the halter a few days ago, if you got the power, are now going to permit you to come and live among them, and have all the rights and privileges they enjoy? Not much! Now the tables are turned; if you go back there, they may make you climb trees; and I hope they will for many of you deserve it. [About this juncture a loud murmuring was audible in the crowd, and a bystander suggested to the General that they might mob him "Mob h—ll! I don't care worth a d—n!" replied the General.]

I want you all to go home and be peaceable quiet citizens, and if marauders and outlaws come among you, do not take the law in your own hands, but if you do it, arrest them and deliver them over, with such evidence as you can obtain, to the commandant of the nearest military post, by this means you will place the responsibility upon others, and avoid neighborhood quarrels and strife

Do not complain if you are not permitted to have a voice in elections and civil affairs. You have forfeited all such rights and it now becomes you to submit to such laws and regulations as the Federal authorities may deem proper to enact I believe, and know, that they will do the best they can for you, especially if you show henceforth that you now desire to merit their confidence by a strict obedience to the laws where you may reside

We are conquered, subjugated, we have no rights, but must accept such privileges and favors as the Government may see proper to bestow upon us."

A SEARCH FOR LOST TREASURE —The New Orleans banks recently sent a commission to Richmond, to ascertain the fate of the specie that was sent to that city by the said banks at the time New Orleans was captured by the Union forces The result of the mission is the ascertainment beyond a doubt that the money was all used by the rebel authorities prior to—and at the time of the grand collapse. It is also pretty clearly ascertained that a large sum of this money was appropriated by some of the high Confederate dignitaries for their own personal benefit There were about $4,500,000 of this specie, and its loss is a severe blow to the banks Served them right For what other purpose did they place this money in the clutches of Jeff Davis if not for use in the cause of the rebellion? Wonder if they intend to call on Uncle Sam to make up their losses under the plea that they were forced spoliations of the enemy?

The New York News recognizes the fact that the success of the armies of the Union gives the manufacture of history to Northern historians and puts a point or two, as follows "Virginians know a certain river bank by the name of Drury's Bluff bluff but never heard of 'Fort Darling' Now, if the war had ended in favor of the Confederacy that bluff would have some chance of retaining its Virginia name but Lee's surrender has made it Fort Darling and Fort Darling it will remain forevermore Confederates, also have been in the habit of calling a certain battle by the name of the Seven Pines but it is now irrevocably and eternally the battle of Fair Oaks and Southern people will themselves have to call it even as the French were finally obliged to use the name of Waterloo, although they long made a struggle for Mont St. Jean "

Colonel John R. McClanahan one of the proprietors of that famous itinerant rebel journal the Memphis-Grenada-Meridian-Jackson-Atlanta-Macon-Montgomery Appeal fell out of a window of the Gayoso House at Memphis one night recently and in the morning was found lying where he fell terribly crushed and barely alive. He lived but a short time afterward

Mrs Surratt

Much has been said in the public press in regard to the execution of Mrs Surratt and cats [illegible] have been employed to create sympathy for her and stir up [illegible] the Commission. It is well to repeat the resume of evidence against Mrs Surratt

The principal witnesses against Mrs Surratt were John M Lloyd, the keeper of the Surrattsville tavern and Louis Weichman About six weeks before the assassination Lloyd testified that Harrold, Atzerodt and John H Surratt came to Lloyd's tavern at Surrattsville bringing with them two Spencer carbines, formidable seven shooting rifles and ammunition and a rope Surratt wished the witness to conceal the weapons and he himself showed Lloyd where to conceal them between the joists and the second floor

On the Monday preceding the Friday of the murder Weichman was sent by Mrs Surratt to Booth to get him to hire the buggy, but Booth had not the buggy, but gave Weichman ten dollars with which to hire one for Mrs Surratt He did so and drove Mrs Surratt to Surrattsville to Lloyd's tavern. What took place there is not fully known On the afternoon of the 14th, the day of the assassination, Weichman again drove Mrs Surratt to Lloyd's tavern. Booth having had a conference with her a few minutes before she left Weichman testifies that on that occasion she took with her two parcels Lloyd testifies that these parcels contained a field glass and two bottles of whisky and that, in her conference with him, she desired him to have "those shooting irons ready for parties who would call that night."

It was afterward known in Washington that other facts had come to light as conclusive as any which came out upon the stand, implicating Mrs Surratt in those deeds of death During the ride to Surrattsville on the afternoon of the 11th she inquired of a person who lived on the road if the pickets remained out all night and on being told that they were called in at eight o'clock replied that she was glad to know it On the evening of the 14th of April she was pacing her sitting room counting her beads, in a state of highly nervous excitement A torch light procession was parading the city in celebration of the national victories she inquired of Weichman the direction the procession was taking, remarking that she had great interest in that procession She desired Weichman and her daughter, Miss Surratt also Miss Fitzpatrick, to "pray for her intentions " Their young people were making some noise with their talking and laughter, and she excitedly bade all of them to leave the room. Before this some one came to the house and rang the bell Mrs Surratt answered at the door It was afterward known that the person who called was J Wilkes Booth, who undoubtedly came to inquire the result of her visit to Lloyd's tavern, and to ascertain if the arrangements made were such that he might rely on them

The fact that Lloyd had the "shooting irons" ready, in obedience to Mrs Surratt's instructions, and that Booth and Harrold, in their flight after their guilty deed, did call at Lloyd's tavern and one of the two carbines, Booth confessing his inability from his wound to carry the other leaves no question as to Mrs Surratt's guilty knowledge of the participation in the conspiracy

Another proof of the guilt of this woman is circumstantially furnished in the return of Payne to her house, as to a place of refuge, after three days and nights of skulking before the pursuing officers of justice The Surratt house was taken possession of by a military guard They had not occupied it an hour when a ring at the door was heard. It was answered by an officer. A man stood at the door, having dirty hands and soiled garments, a pick upon his shoulder, and upon his head, for a cap, what afterward proved to be a sleeve out from his woolen shirt

Finding himself entrapped, he professed to account for his visit at an unseasonable an hour by stating that he had come to dig a drain for Mrs Surratt In answer to other inquiries he said he was a laboring man that he had no money and accounted for his dirty appearance by saying that he had to sleep in the trenches round Washington The discovery of a $20 bill, a tooth brush, a pocket compass, a jar of pomade, a pocket dictionary, and other items which laboring men do not usually carry, was deemed sufficiently suspicious to detain him Mrs Surratt was asked if she knew him, and she solemnly appealed to her God that she had never seen him before This man was Lewis Payne, the assassin of Secretary Seward —N Y Tribune

HOW WILL JEFF DAVIS BE TRIED?—We find the following in an Eastern paper We give it for what it is worth It seems to us quite evident, however, that the great culprit will be tried for treason in the regular way

Although no official announcement has been made as yet relative to the manner in which Jeff Davis is to be brought to trial for his manifold crimes against the nation the belief that he will be tried before a special Military Commission, on a charge of a complicity in the assassination of Mr Lincoln, has many supporters in Washington among those who have opportunity for obtaining information upon subjects of state policy in advance of public announcement It is asserted that additional evidence, involving Jeff in the assassination conspiracy has been discovered and that to this fact may be attributed the transfer of his case from a civil to a military tribunal Col Barton Harrison, Davis's Private Secretary is confined in the penitentiary at Washington which circumstance is accepted as significant of the fact that the rest of the party captured with Davis will soon be brought there Another circumstance, regarded as indicative of business for a new military tribunal, is the enlargement of the court room at the old penitentiary where the conspirators were lately tried The annoyances and discomforts suffered by the officers of the Court during the late trial, in consequence of the narrowness of the chamber, would certainly suggest the need of alterations in the apartment such as have just been commenced.

In this connection it is proper to state that Professor McCullough the rebel inventor who claimed to have discovered a method for "overcoming certain difficulties," supposed to refer to rebel plots for destroying cities by fire, as alluded to in the evidence on the late assassination trials, was brought to Washington on the 10th of July, and placed in confinement

EX PRESIDENT BUCHANAN'S FORTHCOMING BOOK — A Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Press says

The long promised volume of the old public functionary is now in the hands of the printers, and will be published in fine style by the Appletons, the celebrated New York publishers It will be a full history of the late administration, from J B's own notes, written by himself, in the months of classic quiet at Wheatland, while his theory that the Government could not protect itself from annihilation was being tried at the cost of precious blood and life on the field of battle It will be a work of some 500 pages duodecimo The respectable ex President kept a diary of all the events of his rule He is an old hand at this bellows, besides, he has rare industry and powers of labor, so that he has few equals His genius is dull but his endurance is wonderful He regularly collects, digests, files away and re-uses all his correspondence and memoranda And as he was fully aware that he left office not over blessed with friends, and a good deal complained of, he has used his materials for vindication with his best ability I am told he is very anxious for his book to appear thinks the printers slow and expects that it will be a very conclusive affair in all respects It has been to him a work of love Indeed he gave to it all his time and thought of which in his solitude, he has had overmuch When the book is out he will engage himself by reading the reviews and critiques—a pleasant pastime, truly to the O P F Anyhow, this shows that he is in fine health and robust equanimity, for he will have to be a most correct analist to escape a steady and searching analysis But, as he says he wants occupation this is a capital way to secure it

MATTERS IN GEORGIA In Alabama and Georgia the freedmen generally having recovered from their jubilation over the acquisition of their liberty have settled down to work on the plantations but many of them have yet to be taught that freedom and idleness are not synonymous In Georgia it is said the planters have this year to a great extent, instead of cotton, planted corn of which an immense crop is anticipated Though some of the landed proprietors are determined not to employ their former slaves as hired laborers the majority are disposed to give the free labor system a fair trial and are confident that if the negroes will work industriously both they and their employers will be benefited by the change and that the lands and all other kinds of property will in a very short time be far more valuable than ever they were under the existence of slavery

The rebel ex Governor Joseph E Brown in an address which he has issued to the people of Georgia advises them to submit gracefully to the emancipation of their slaves to take the oath of allegiance and qualify themselves for voters to cheerfully join in the maintenance of the national government to acquiesce in the measures taken for the restoration of civil government in their Commonwealth and to give the Administration of President Johnson a cordial support —New York Herald

The New York Herald finally denies the statement of the Richmond Bulletin, that Bennett offered to sell out to Jefferson Davis for $10,000.

Committee — Capt John Smith Peoria Linn county Superintendent Seth Luelling Milwaukie D W James Salem; Mrs S Price Salem; Mrs M J Mayes Wapa to Washington Co; Mrs Mary Post Elton Polk Co

This class is of great length, and our remarks must be brief "Bread," is said to be "the staff of life" and should be well made We are not admirers of salt or milk rising bread especially when it has age Mrs Beecher Stowe, in the Atlantic Monthly, condemns bread raised with "salt" or "milk rising" She says that when it is a few days old it is not fit to be eaten Nevertheless we know that in Oregon it is often found, and that persons accustomed to it like it well Bread however raised with yeast, is a better and healthier article and will be sweet even in its dry state Bread for exhibition must not be made long, indeed it should be fresh and new when brought to the fair Ladies will have an opportunity of trying their taste, and skill, too, in making the varieties of cake called for In our judgment the premiums should have been larger than those offered in this section A loaf of fruit cake is worth more than the premium offered We shall expect to see on exhibition many specimens of jellies, preserves, canned fruit, condiments, etc It would certainly be very gratifying to see presented for competition flowers in pots floral designs, cut flowers, roses, nosegays, bouquets, herbariums of native flowers, named and classed. The premiums in this section are very liberal In the number and richness of the herbariums offered, we shall be likely to witness the extent of the knowledge which some young ladies attain in botany in our schools and academies

The section "Home Work" must interest every lady housekeeper, and others who are not housekeepers, in Oregon This "Home Work," is, to some extent, made up of necessities and "what is worth doing at all, is worth doing well" Millinery and mantuamaking these are leading arts surely No lady dons a new hat a dress or cloak without judgment being passed upon the article by a hundred eyes, and may be a hundred tongues We shall see what the taste of the ladies will do in articles under this head We recollect some three years ago a splendid exhibition of ladies' hats at the Fair, made by Mrs Levy, of Portland Shall we not have some other specimens, made, if possible, in a still higher style of the art? We shall see

We cannot succeed with a State Fair without we have the countenance and assistance of the ladies The ladies' department of the Fair probably interests a greater number of people than any other department We must have the ladies at the Fair, with their articles for exhibition, and the boys and the girls, to see and examine what is exhibited in the various branches of agriculture, in the mechanic arts in the ladies several departments of industry —and we shall want to see everybody, old acquaintances of the times which were once rough in Oregon and make new acquaintances and have generally a good time

JEFF DAVIS' TRIAL —The rumors that Jeff Davis is to be tried before a military court at Washington, for complicity in the assassination of President Lincoln have been revived during the past few days We do not know that they have any other basis than that the room in which the recent trials of the assassins was held is being fitted up for some purpose, and the assertion that among the recently captured papers of the arch rebel there are documents furnishing positive proof connecting him with the assassination If that is so the facts can be given to the world by the government after he shall have been tried as we hope he will be by a civil court not on the charge of assassination, but on the graver charge of treason That is his crime, and out of it the other grew He conspired not only to take the life of President Lincoln, but he conspired to take the life of the nation he caused the death of hundreds of thousands of her best and noblest sons and clothed the whole nation in mourning He stands before the world as the representative of treason Let him be tried as such Unless he is thus tried and if convicted made to suffer the penalty of treason the Government will fail in showing that it has the moral power to punish treason the worst of crimes The future welfare and safety of the nation requires that he should be tried as a traitor and we hope that the wishes of the people in this respect will not be disappointed Boston Journal July 6th

The Archbishop of Canterbury said one day to Garrick "Pray inform me how it is that you gentlemen of the stage can affect your auditory with things imaginary, as if they were real while we of the church speak of things real which many of our congregation receive as things imaginary " "Why" replied Garrick, "the reason is plain We act and speak of things imaginary as if they were real while too many in the pulpit speak of things real as if they were imaginary " His grace bowed to the reproof of the actor
